New Department Chairperson

After six years of service, Prof. Sidney Cheung has completed his term as the Department Chairperson. Prof. Gordon Mathews is appointed the new Chairperson with effect from August 1, 2014.

Nepali Culture Workshop 2014-2015

Tam will organise the Nepali Culture Workshop in the coming year. More

What are their experiences and views towards discrimination?

How are Nepali people marginalised socially and culturally in Hong Kong?

We've Started Accepting Applications for MPhil/PhD Programmes 2015-2016! Please feel free to forward this message if you know anyone is interested. More Taitung this summer. They conducted their research on how the place and the community should be developed in East Asia, in Quanzhou, China. You may contact her via email (tkdapple“at”gmail.com).

As a keen diver with archaeology background, she devotes her leisure time to the preservation of Hong Kong's first underwater excavation done by local residents. On behalf of Hong Kong Underwater Heritage Extension programmes, she also has chance to take part in exhibition planning and daily museum operation.

Yip currently works in Museum of Coastal Defence. While responsible for planning and organizing education and extension programmes, she also has chance to take part in exhibition planning and daily museum operation.

Speaker: KOH Sin Yee, City University of Hong Kong
NAH 12 Department of Anthropology

Speakers:
Raima GURURNG SHAH, Island English Kindergarten (Kwai Hing)
Rizwan ULLAH, University of Hong Kong,
Wai-chi CHEE, University of Hong Kong,

Speakers:
Sharmila GURUNG, United Christian Nethersole Community Health Service

Speaker: Carmen WONG, The Chinese University of Hong Kong
NAH 12 Department of Anthropology

Speaker: Alex COCKAIN, Hong Kong Polytechnic University
NAH 12 Department of Anthropology

Professor Cheung’s book “Wetland Tourism in Four Seasons: Perspectives from landscape, foodways and community lifestyles” is published in August, 2014. The book records the knowledge generated by various stakeholders of the Inner Deep Bay and the neighboring areas, and presents an integrated design of ecotourism planning that enables nature conservation and rural development in a compatible way. The book also discusses the necessity of having a comprehensive understanding of the place and the community of the Inner Deep Bay, and presents how the research conducted in this area may be extended to other similar places.

The Virtual Museum is launched

The Virtual Museum at the Department of Anthropology, CUHK, offers a digital tour through the collection of ethnographic and archeological artifacts collected by the teachers and students of the Department over the last three decades. The theme of the latest monthly feature is “Department of Anthropology, CUHK: Then and Now”, which exhibits selected ethnographic and archeological artifacts. On August 15, 2014, the Virtual Museum launched its new feature, Department of Anthropology, CUHK: Then and Now.

The Virtual Museum is an educational resource with virtual tours that are accessible to everyone. It is designed to enable users to explore the collection of ethnographic and archeological artifacts collected by the teachers and students of the Department over the last three decades. The Virtual Museum offers a digital tour through the collection of artifacts, providing a virtual experience of the department's expertise and reputation in heritage studies.

The Virtual Museum at the Department of Anthropology, CUHK, offers a digital tour through the collection of ethnographic and archeological artifacts collected by the teachers and students of the Department over the last three decades. The theme of the latest monthly feature is “Department of Anthropology, CUHK: Then and Now”, which exhibits selected ethnographic and archeological artifacts. On August 15, 2014, the Virtual Museum launched its new feature, Department of Anthropology, CUHK: Then and Now.

The Virtual Museum at the Department of Anthropology, CUHK, offers a digital tour through the collection of ethnographic and archeological artifacts collected by the teachers and students of the Department over the last three decades. The theme of the latest monthly feature is “Department of Anthropology, CUHK: Then and Now”, which exhibits selected ethnographic and archeological artifacts. On August 15, 2014, the Virtual Museum launched its new feature, Department of Anthropology, CUHK: Then and Now.

The Virtual Museum at the Department of Anthropology, CUHK, offers a digital tour through the collection of ethnographic and archeological artifacts collected by the teachers and students of the Department over the last three decades. The theme of the latest monthly feature is “Department of Anthropology, CUHK: Then and Now”, which exhibits selected ethnographic and archeological artifacts. On August 15, 2014, the Virtual Museum launched its new feature, Department of Anthropology, CUHK: Then and Now.

The Virtual Museum at the Department of Anthropology, CUHK, offers a digital tour through the collection of ethnographic and archeological artifacts collected by the teachers and students of the Department over the last three decades. The theme of the latest monthly feature is “Department of Anthropology, CUHK: Then and Now”, which exhibits selected ethnographic and archeological artifacts. On August 15, 2014, the Virtual Museum launched its new feature, Department of Anthropology, CUHK: Then and Now.

The Virtual Museum at the Department of Anthropology, CUHK, offers a digital tour through the collection of ethnographic and archeological artifacts collected by the teachers and students of the Department over the last three decades. The theme of the latest monthly feature is “Department of Anthropology, CUHK: Then and Now”, which exhibits selected ethnographic and archeological artifacts. On August 15, 2014, the Virtual Museum launched its new feature, Department of Anthropology, CUHK: Then and Now.

In memory of Ethnology in Beijing. She will be conducting anthropological research on heritage, material culture and urban governance in her new home in Beijing. Prof. Lu serves as Professor in our department, and has made a great contribution in building up the department's expertise and reputation in heritage studies. Our thoughts are with her for the rest of her life. We would like to express our gratitude and send our best wishes to Prof. Tracey Lu who has applied for leave due to poor health. Prof. Lu serves as Professor in our department, and has made a great contribution in building up the department's expertise and reputation in heritage studies. Our thoughts are with her for the rest of her life.

The Virtual Museum at the Department of Anthropology, CUHK, offers a digital tour through the collection of ethnographic and archeological artifacts collected by the teachers and students of the Department over the last three decades. The theme of the latest monthly feature is “Department of Anthropology, CUHK: Then and Now”, which exhibits selected ethnographic and archeological artifacts. On August 15, 2014, the Virtual Museum launched its new feature, Department of Anthropology, CUHK: Then and Now.

YIP (Ph.D.)

This month we wish to feature YIP (Ph.D.)- “My research interests include urban planning and community engagement. We plan to do a film project in the future to tell the story of Ham and daily island lifestyle. In general, I enjoy doing research in various communities, and am interested in heritage and community development. I also enjoy travelling in different countries and cultures.”

If you have any questions, comments or you would like to share your latest news with us, please feel free to contact us at anthropology@cuhk.edu.hk.