Course Outline

Museums are important institutions and serve contemporary societies' economic, social and political needs. This course aims to study the issues on museology from anthropological perspectives. What is a museum? Why are museums established? Who needs museums? The course will examine museums' origin, classification, structure, function and practice with examples from art, history, and anthropology exhibits worldwide, and students are encouraged to find their examples. The course will introduce the collection, management, exhibition design, and techniques in museums; discuss museums and digital technology. This course will also analyze how national identities and gender are constructed and enhanced through exhibitions; and discuss roles played by different stakeholders of museums from the (inter)national, regional and local communities.

Major contents of this course

1. What is a museum? Why do museums occur? Who needs museums?
2. The cultural contexts and classification of modern museums
3. Basic practices of museums: acquisition, documentation, preservation, exhibition design, presentation, education and research
4. Museology from an anthropological perspective: collection and colonialism; exhibition and stereotyping, identity construction and gender interpretation; the social inclusion, public engagement and other roles of modern museums; museums and digital technology
5. Museum in the 21st century- debates on its cultural, economic, social and political roles

Learning outcomes

After taking this course, students are expected to:

- understand the basic functions of museums;

- understand the economic, social and political roles played by museums in contemporary societies;
- have a basic knowledge on museum practices from exhibition design to visitor study;
- develop the ability to integrate data from different disciplines and present data in a well organized manner;
- cultivate the ability of critical thinking, particularly through analyzing exhibition contents.

Learning activities

2-hour lectures and 1-hour tutorial per week for one semester, including a museum field trip

Grade descriptors are as follows for the assessment of this course:

Grade Overall course

- A Outstanding performance on all learning outcomes.
- A- Generally outstanding performance on all (or almost all) learning outcomes.
- B Substantial performance on all learning outcomes, OR high performance on some learning outcomes which compensates for less satisfactory performance on others, resulting in overall substantial performance.
- C Satisfactory performance on the majority of learning outcomes, possibly with a few weaknesses.
- D Barely satisfactory performance on a number of learning outcomes
- F Unsatisfactory performance on a number of learning outcomes, OR failure to meet specified assessment requirements.

Submissions & academic honesty

The Chinese University of Hong Kong places very high importance on academic honesty, and adopts a policy of zero tolerance on cheating in examinations and plagiarism. Any such offence will lead to disciplinary action including possibly termination of studies at the University. Students should know how to properly use source material and how to avoid plagiarism.

As required by the university, from Sept. 2008, students must submit a soft copy of their computer-generated text assignments to VeriGuide at a specified URL. The system will issue a receipt containing a declaration of honesty statement. Students should sign the receipt, print a hard copy of their assignment, and submit the hard copy and the receipt to teachers for grading. The university says that assignments without the receipt will NOT be graded.

Please check the website "Honesty in Academic Work" at:

<http://www.cuhk.edu.hk/policy/academichonesty/> for more information on plagiarism and on how to submit papers through VeriGuide
