Course Description

Hong Kong has been known as an Asia's world city, the confluence of Eastern and Western cultures. How true are these claims? What issues have been occurring to this city in rapid socio-economic transformation? This course introduces students to an understanding of Hong Kong's culture and its people from an anthropological perspective. Through close readings of ethnographies, viewing of videos, and fieldtrips, the class explores the interaction of different cultural flows in various social systems, and learns about the linkage between the past and the present, the local and the global, and the Chinese and the rest.

What you will learn:

Student taking this course will:

- gain a better appreciation of different aspects of the culture of Hong Kong;
- learn how to use anthropological perspectives to understand our society and other people;
- acquire a critical mind to examine any social issues.

Course Requirements:

Class Participation:	10%
Response Papers:	40% (2 x 20%)
Research Paper:	50%

1) Class Participation (10%)

You are expected to attend all the lectures and tutorials. Furthermore, you are expected to read the assigned readings before coming to class and participate in the discussion.

2) Response Papers (40%)

Choose two weekly topics and write two 3-4 page response papers. Response papers should discuss the topic with reference to the assigned reading(s) and/or lecture. Instead of merely summarizing the reading(s)/lecture, you should raise critical points of views, for example, what new insights you have got, what limitations you have identified, what follow-up questions have come to your mind, etc. Ideally, a central theme should be raised to link up your arguments. Submit your first response paper on or before 3 Nov and your second response paper on or before 25 Nov.

3) Research Paper (50%):

Write a 6-7 page research paper on the topic "Cultural Meanings of Hong Kong" by conducting an in-depth interview with an interlocutor. Fieldwork is highly recommended. The aim of the research is to analyze how one's life history, socio-economic background, cultural upbringing, and everyday experience shape one's view of Hong Kong. Your interlocutor's view is not necessarily static but vary spatially and temporally. Identify the context and complexity, and use the concepts discussed in the lesson for your analysis. If you use other people's ideas or words in the paper, you should cite the sources and list the sources under "References" in the end. Information about the CUHK academic honesty policy is available at <http://www.cuhk.edu.hk/policy/academichonesty/>. Submit your paper on or before 9 Dec.

After finishing your written assignments, please submit soft copies to both VeriGuide and the Blackboard. Hard copies are not required. When you name your files, please indicate the topics that you are responding to.

The paper should be written in the following format: Double line spacing, Times New Roman, and font 12 (either Chinese or English).

Please submit your assignment on time. Marks will be deducted (i.e. one point per day) for late submission.
